[This Session is currently closed]

The Administrative Office of the Court, in partnership with Eastern Kentucky University and Hallenross & Associates, is proud to announce a new training initiative designed to prepare interpreters for the RID Specialist Certificate: Legal (SC:L) Examination. The project is the next phase in the ongoing efforts of the AOC to prepare sign language interpreters to work for the Kentucky Court of Justice (KCOJ) which began in 2009. The project will consist of two tracks, consistent with the SC:L test structure.

SC:L Practice Test

The course is designed to provide guided study and discussion, as well as feedback on each section of the SC:L performance test. Feedback will be provided by both peers in the group as well as the training facilitator. All training facilitators are SC:L certified. The group will meet at least monthly either face-to-face or online over a period of 8 to 9 months to accomplish its goals.

The course is offered for interpreters who are eligible to take the SC:L performance test.
